The 1990-1991 school year was a blur of activity for students, faculty and staff alike. From Homecoming activities to the Winter Sports Awards Banquet to commencement everyone involved with U of I kept BUSY. The staff invites you to kick back, relax and let volume 72 of the Oracle bring back the memories of 1990-1991, so LET'S GET BUSY...

IN FULL SWING

U of I has a plan for everyone

Located in the heart of Indiana, the University of Indianapolis has a small campus, but it offers its students a large variety of activities to keep them busy.

Classes. Sports. Clubs. Social Events. Jobs. There's always something to do somewhere. Finding free time, to some, is often a chore.

"When I'm not in classes, I work," said sophomore Ginnette Dunwell, secondary education major,"I transferred to U of I, and I'm always busy trying to catch up with everything."

Junior education major Monica Stoots said, "I've always got something to do or something that needs to be done. Busy is a good word to describe my life."

Anyplace that's comfortable. A U of I student finds a quiet spot to relax and catch up on some reading.

let's get

U of I students found plenty of social activities to keep them busy when they weren't studying.

Some of these activities included the ISG events such as Mardi Gras, Blizzard of Bucks, homecoming activities and the various dances throughout the year.

The Ruth Lilly Center for Health and Fitness was a veritable gold mine for athletic types. Its basketball, racquetball, swimming and weight facilities were in constant use.

Even the residence halls proved centers of social activity. Students could be found playing pool, ping-pong or euchre or just gabbing at all hours in the dorms.

No matter what the activity, there was always something to do but never enough time to do it all.

Robin Stout, junior, and her escort dance the night away at U of I's first winter formal, the Mystical Snow Ball, held at the Murat Temple.

Rack 'em up! Mike Crist and Eric Chan, freshmen, take a study break for a quick game of pool. Each residence hall had some form of games or entertainment for its students.

LET'S GET...

It's a dirty job, but somebody's got to do it. No, it's not washing clothes, it's not cleaning your room, it's not even playing mud football on a Saturday afternoon. Believe it or not, it's studying.

With stacks of books and papers, headphones on and highlighter in hand, the ever-busy student once again prepares to tackle some homework.

"I study in the library because it is quiet, but sometimes it's too quiet, so I study in the lobby of my dorm to be around people," said Kenny Marshall, sophomore elementary education major.

Anywhere from dorm rooms to egg chairs in the library, students could always be found somewhere at sometime with their noses buried in books.

A little peace and quiet. Senior Sandy Shultz relaxs in the library lounge chairs. Not all students liked to study in their dorm room or at a desk.

Deep in thought, freshman Brett Williams listens intently to professor Butch Fennema in his introduction to management class.

UP to STUDY

In their convo portrayal of Alexander Hamilton and Patrick Henry, professors Jim Ream and Billy Catchings perform a dramatic dialogue written by Dr. Stephen Graham in a tribute to the Bill of Rights.

The library—a student's home away from home. Jong Ho Yi, freshman, is surrounded by studies as he prepares for a long night in Krannert Memorial Library.

Homecoming Court members, Sandy Herre, junior, and Jenny Stamm, senior, are all smiles as they wait for ISG Vice President Tami Peters, junior, to start the procession onto the field.

U of I suffered a 40-14 loss to the Hillsdale Chargers at Key Stadium before a homecoming crowd of 3,819 fans.

Hillsdale dominated the first half of play and kept the Greyhounds scoreless to take a halftime lead of 27-0. It took the Greyhounds until the third quarter to get on the scoreboard.

Despite the 'Hounds efforts, the Chargers remained in control to seal the conference victory for Hillsdale.

GET IN THE SPIRIT

Students show pride at U of I

Kentucky. Away games. Saudi Arabia. The U of I campus.

U of I students, faculty and staff have shown a spirit of patriotism, generosity and human kindness during the 1990-1991 school year that stretched across the globe.

In December, students traveled to Kentucky to participate in the Appalachia Service Project to help house the poor.

Yellow ribbons fluttered across campus. American flags graced windows and doors in dorm rooms supporting the troops of Desert Storm.

U of I's efforts to save the environment could be seen throughout the campus. Containers to collect paper and cans for recycling littered the halls, dorm rooms and computer labs.

Whatever the effort, students, faculty and staff got into the spirit at U of I.

The 'Hound Pound! U of I cheerleaders Tara Thompson, Carrie Staff, Elisa Bowen, Monica Stoots, Charlene Bee Tracy Yager, K-C McCombs and Cindy Blackburn surround mascot Shannon Black at the Top Dog game held Butler University.

Greyhound fans Mary Maravilla, Monica Stoots, Shannon Black, Franci Patterson, Michelle Burke and Kelly Dunwell gear up for the Top Dog game. Students eye up the competition for the three-legged race.

Tracy Marschall, senior, and Sheri Cummins, sophomore, untangle themselves after the three-legged race. Even bad weather couldn't dampen the mood at the 40th annual event.

let's go

SOUTH

Gloomy weather may have dampened Brown County Day attendance, but it failed to damage the spirit of the day.

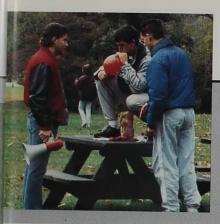

Students, faculty, staff and alumni journeyed south to participate in the 40th annual Brown County Day festivities.

"I like seeing all the cheerful people on such a bad day," said psychology professor Victoria Bedford. "It's nice to see each other out of the classroom situation. It's unique."

Members of the ISG led games such as the balloon stomp, the three-legged race and the ever-favored tug-of-war. Other students played football, kickball and volleyball, as well.

Director of Student Life Larry Bledsoe and Dr. Perry Kea, religion professor, team up for the three-legged race.

Chuck Porter, sophomore, Scott Barrett, junior, and Paul Horton, freshman, prepare the balloons for the balloon-stomping contest.

Preparing for the tug-of-war, the favored event at the Brown County Day festivities, sophomore class members anxiously await the whistle blow and the tug to see if their class is the best.

LIGHTS, MUSIC.

Let's get...into the action!!! Performing arts action, that is.

Where else can you see or become someone totally different than yourself or visit exotic places firsthand than on stage.

U of I's theater department took us to a southern beauty salon in *Steel Mag*nolias and aboard ship in Mr. Roberts.

Crimson Express and the Concert Choir graced the campus with beautiful voices singing everything from classical, to jazz to popular music.

The Concert Band performed under the direction of Jim White, while the pep band performed at every home game.

Assistant Director Lucy Wenning, senior, helps Dr. Richard Williams, director, run Mr. Roberts auditions.

Ensign Pulver (junior Collin Moore) and Mr. Roberts (Jim Ream) try to make scotch from ship ward chemicals. Mr. Roberts was the first play of the season for the theater department.

ACTION

Members of the Crimson Express held a performance to raise funds to help Janice Collins, staff member, pay her medical bills.

get busy SENIORS

Seniors Raynel Berry, Susan Haynes, Leah Duling and Craig Waits wait in line for commencement to commence.

MOVIE TIME

Hollywood film makers covered just about every subject in an effort to entertain the American public. The gruesome Silence of the Lambs played along side the hilarious comedy Home Alone, showing the diversity we Americans crave.

Edward Scissorhands, starring Johnny Dep and Winona Ryder, was a whimsical comedy of a boy coming of age and coming to terms with his hands, that were actually scissors. Audiences were captivated by Edward's "handiwork" on shrubbery and hair.

Silence of the Lambs, starring Jodie Foster and Anthony Hopkins, was based partly on the true story of Hannibal Lector, otherwise known as "Hannibal the Cannibal." Foster portrays a young FBI agent in search of a serial killer. Hopkins' Lector knows who the killer is and helps Foster eventually find her man.

Kevin Costner's portraval of a lone soldier on the western frontier in the 1880's in Dances with Wolves eventually won several Academy Awards. Dances with Wolves was a touching story of survival, and gave audiences an insight on the lives of native American Indians.

Good Fella's The Godfather III portrayed organized crime in America. Good Fella's ended up with an Oscar, while The Godfather III ceived mixed reviews from movie critics.

The hilarious comedy of the Christmas season, Home Alone, starred newcomer Macaulay Culkin, a boy left at home in his family's rush to leave on a vacation. Culkin's character turns his home into a memorable trap to combat neighborhood burglars.

Singer/actress Madonna shocked the world with her rocumentary Truth or Dare. Filmmakers followed Madonna on her concert tour to document the life of this star.

For those who like a little bit more mellow sound, Mariah Carey leaped onto the charts with "Love Takes Time" and "I Don't Want to Cry." Other new faces on the pop music scene included Wilson Phillips, Nelson and Lisa Stansfield. Comebacks included REM and Whitney Housten.

U of I students had an opportunity to see some of their favorite artists in concert in Indianapolis. Concerts held at Deer Creek Music Center, Market Square Arena and the Hoosier Dome included Billy Joel, Don Henley, Warrant, Guns 'n Roses, the Kentucky Headhunters, INXS, the Grateful Dead and Paul McCartney.

FACING THE STORM

Americans tuned in to CNN to find out the latest from the conflict in the Persian Gulf.

The urgent bulletin came across the wire services at around 6:35 p.m. on Wednesday, January 16. "URGENT — reports of bombs and flashes of light over the skies of Baghdad," read the bulletin. As White House spokesman - Marlin Fitzwater announced just minutes later, the United States had just undertaken the largest military offensive since the Vietnam Conflict. Six months after the first U.S. troops landed on the Saudi soil, the liberation of Kuwait had be-began as an air offensive operation. The U.S. military achieved air superiority over the Iraqi skies just days after the operation began. As brave soldiers risked their lives in the Middle East, Americans at home kept well informed by tuning into such news sources as CNN. Many Americans were "glued" to their televisions during the first few days of the operation.

Many male students were worried a draft may be introduced if the war were to continue for more than a few months. "More important than maintaining our enrollments would be to make sure we have a secure defense," said Dr. Lynn Youngblood, university vice-president.

Operation Desert Storm lasted 100 days. 147 U.S. soldiers were killed, and rough estimates of Iraqi casualties ranged as high as 20,000.

Although victory was declared by the allied forces, the survival of Iraqi president Saddam Hussein left many to worry when the next outbreak of war could occur in the Middle East.

Vilnius, Lithuania — Unarmed Lithuanians tried to prevent Soviet troops from taking a television tower outside Vilnius in mid-January. Shots were fired, and at least 15 Lithuanians were killed. More than 70 were injured. A similar event occurred in Riga, Latvia weeks later as Soviet Republics struggled for independence.

Baghdad, Iraq — CNN reporters Bernard Shaw, Peter Arnett and John Holliman provided continuous broadcast coverage from a Baghdad hotel at the onslaught of Operation Desert Storm. CNN was the only network able to keep its phone line open after bombing began.

Capetown, Africa — The last legal vestiges of apartheid were revoked as President F.W. De Klerk announced the repeal of the Land, Group Areas and Population Registration Acts Feb. 1. Later in the spring Winnie Mandela, wife of the African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela, was convicted of kidnapping and assaulting four black youths. The crime carries a death sentence.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait — Saddam Hussein ordered oil fields set on fire, and spigots on an off-shore loading pier were opened, releasing a 10 mile oil spill into the Persian Gulf.

South America— A massive epidemic of cholera spread through Peru and Brazil in March.

Los Angeles, California — Four police officers were arrested after beating an unemployed construction worker, Rodney King. King suffered 11 skull fractures, a crushed cheekbone, broken ankle, internal injuries, a burn on his chest and some brain damage during the March incident.

Mozart rides again

Both the university radio station's call letters and the face of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart could be seen throughout Indianapolis during 1991. The Fine Arts Society, which broadcasts classical music over WICR-FM (88.7), introduced The Spirit of Mozart. This "spirit" was a 16-ton, 48seat bus festively decorated with a portrait of the great composer. Martha Vores, the society's development director, felt the theme was appropriate for the station. "If there's anything that's a theme to the Fine Arts Society, it's Mozart," said Vores. The Mozart theme was chosen because marked the 200th anniversary of Mozart's death.

Airline files bankruptcy

The daily news of Operation Desert Storm overshadowed many important stories during the first few months of 1991. But on January 17, one of the nation's oldest airlines went out of business.

The struggle for Eastern Airlines had ended. Eastern Airlines had been under Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection for nearly three years after being purchased by Texas Air Corporation.

Headed by Frank Lorenzo, many accused Texas Air of draining Eastern of both its financial assets and excellent reputation for providing safe air travel.

Only months before Eastern Airlines ceased operations, the Federal Aviation Administration found Eastern guilty of falsifying maintenance documents in an effort to save money.

Once a recognized leader in air travel, Eastern Airlines quickly faded into another casualty of airline deregulation.

Divided legislature causes special sessions

For the first time in 20 years Democrats controlled the House, causing political upheaval in the Indiana General Assembly.

The Indiana political arena closely resembled a circus as the Indiana General Assembly ended its 1991 regular session in April without passing a budget or redistricting plan, the two key issues of the 107th legislative session.

Legislators proposed bills concerning workers' compensation, collective bargaining, casino gambling and the reorganization of Indiana's human services division.

Every two years the General Assembly must produce a state spending plan. Legislators are also responsible for updating political districts every 10 years following a census.

In December, fiscal analysts predicted a multimillion dollar deficit by 1992, adding to budget woes.

Disputes concerning vehicle excise taxes and education funding in budget conference committee discussions and minority and community of interest conflicts in redistricting talks delayed the legislative process and caused a second special session.

After five and one half months of bitter fueding, political posturing by House Democrats and Senate Republicans and threats by the governor, the state Legislature finished its work late June 13.

The General Assembly was in special session for 32 days, with a cost to taxpayers of more than $429,000.

Democratic Floor Leader John Gregg exhorts Republican House members to return to the floor the evening of the 57th session day (the final day to hear Senate bills on third reading). Republicans walked off the floor when Speaker Michael Phillips did not recognize Rep. Frank Newkirk for discussion on an amendment. Republicans refused to return to the floor before the midnight deadline, killing more than 60 Senate bills. ## Smoking banned on campus

Students and faculty who want to light one up on campus will find it harder to do this fall.

Beginning in mid-August, smoking in campus buildings is limited to private rooms in residence halls.

"It would be inconsistent of us to provide as many health related programs as we do and at the same time encourage, even in a modest way, smoking," said Vice President Lynn Youngblood. "Evidence is very clear that it is negative for all of our health."

The brink of war

The deadline was midnight, January 15, 1991. Everyone was touched with thoughts of war as the United Nations' deadline for the Iraqi removal from Kuwait passed. Across the country, people turned to churches for hope and a sense of security. The campus chapel provided a place where students could find comfort and assurance.

"We are gathered because we face a crisis in the Persian Gulf. We stand on the brink of war because Saddam Hussein and George Bush have decided to play a juvenile game of chicken in the desert," said Rev. John Young, university chaplain, Students and several faculty members, including university President Dr. G. Benjamin Lantz, Jr. and Vice President Lynn Youngblood attended.

A candlelight vigil was also held by students. Tracy Marschall, senior English/religion major, expressed concern over the war. "As I lit my candle I saw hope for the future and I pray this hope will not be extinguished by the storm of dissent as easily as my candle is snuffed out by a gentle breeze," said Marschall.

U of I to build $8 million fine arts center

U of I will break ground during the late fall to construct an $8 million fine arts center.

President G. Benjamin Lantz, Jr. made the announcement June 1.

Christel DeHaan, president and owner of Resort Condominiums International, Inc., a university trustee, gave the money necessary to build the facility.

The building will be called the Christel DeHaan Fine Arts Center. It will feature a performance hall seating 450-500 people as well as classrooms, offices and studios for U of I's .music and arts departments.

"We are elated and extremely grateful to Christel DeHaan for her generosity to the university," said Lantz.

"Through her exemplary corporate leadership, her strong interest in international affairs, education and the arts, and now this gift, she is making extraordinary contributions not only to our students and faculty but also to all the citizens of Indianapolis and surrounding communities."

The project is scheduled for completion during the winter of 1992-1993.

Other future projects include a communications building and conference center, a health and sciences building and renovation of Schwitzer Center.

premiere makes splash on campus

The stars really came out for the premiere of Diving In.

The movie had its gala premiere Friday, Sept. 14, at the Indiana Repertory Theater. The event was staged as a fund-raiser for U of I by the executive producers of the film, Michael Maurer and Mark Shaw.

Big names such as Olivia Newton-John, Alan Thicke and Matt Adler were present at the black-tie affair.

"I think it went well. People enjoyed the movie," said Jenny Adams, director of development for the university.

The IRT was suitably decorated for the evening, including a carpeted runway for the stars and sweeping lights. Presidential Assistants and some members of the football team served as ushers. The $250 per person price included a special dinner at the home of Michael Maurer. Tickets were also available at $37 per person, but did not include the dinner party.

Q-95's Tom Griswold emceed the premiere. Griswold announced the guests as they were driven up in police-escorted limousines.

A promotional video was shown to the guest before the movie started. Indiana Bell produced this video free of charge.

Matt Adler, the movie's star, said making the movie was a great experience. "I really like Indianapolis. People, for some reason, are so shocked to hear that," said Adler.

Tuition, housing increases

In a letter to all students Feb. 1, the Finanace Committee of the Board of Trustees announced new charges of $9,020 for day division tuition and $3,470 for room and board.

The increase in tuition will be used to offset technology upgrades, increase health care costs, new faculty and staff positions and salary and wage increases. Increased housing revenue will be used to offset rising food costs and the 10 percent increase in the federal minimum wage.

Even with these increases, the charges will pay only two-thirds of the cost of operation, excluding capital expenditures, according to the letter from the Finance Committee.

This year's increase is a smaller percentage than the 1990-91 increase.

Beaver named Esch Scholar

Senior Kyra Beaver was chosen as this year's Esch Scholar by President Lantz. The award, named for President Emeritus I. Lynd Esch, is given each year to the most outstanding senior in academics and campus activities.

"I was ecstatic because I didn't expect to receive it and I was also surprised that it was a $100 scholarship," said Beaver.

According to Beaver, who received a letter at the beginning of August notifying her of the award, she was chosen for her leadership qualities and high G.P.A. Beaver, who has a French education major and a Spanish education minor, is a member of Alpha Chi and Phi Alpha Epsilon academic honoraries, UIIA and the Foreign Language Honor Society.

"I never really planned to excel when I came to this university." commented Beaver about her 3.994 G.P.A. "I just do my best which ends up being good by measurable standards."

Beaver was presented with a certificate and frame at the opening convocation ceremony.

Survey says many students drink despite age

"... people are drinking that way of coping."

A just-released study shows that this campus may not be as "dry" as some people think.

More than 70 percent of U of I students admit they drink alcohol, according to a survey conducted in May by the U of I Alcohol Awareness Committee.

The survey results showed that 72 percent of the students admitted to using alcohol on a regular basis. Among those who indicated they drink were 72 percent who were under age 21.

"It's not a surprise that most people that drink are under 21. Under age drinking says to me, a couple of things. Under age drinking is illegal number one, but that's not what concerns me. The fact that people are drinking not because they learned it here on campus, but they've gotten used to that way of coping," said Penny Moyer, chairperson of the Alcohol Awareness Committee.

The results of the survey are not a surprise to Vice-President Lynn Youngblood either.

"We've seen other surveys, cooperative institutional research profiles, which we've done almost every year except the last two. They come out of UCLA, and those results are similar to what we've seen on that survey."

One student, Rob Kanable, expressed his opinion that the results of the survey show that this a "normal" campus. "This is a dry campus, but it (alcohol consumption) is just a fact of life in college. You can't really stop it," said Kanable, a sophomore communications in business major.

Follett on Campus

The nation's largest bookstore management company has taken over operations of the university's bookstore in a move that could mean better products and lower prices.

"It will really benefit the students because you'll have 60 to 80 percent used books (to choose from), so your costs should go down (as students)," said Kendall Hottell, university business manager.

Follett will also stock the bookstore with a wider variety of items, including best-selling books.

U of I has second sister school

Reachinbeyond national boundaries, U of I created a sister relationship with Tunghai University in Taichung, Taiwan.

U of I President G. Benjamin Lantz, Jr. met with Tunghai University President Ko-wang Mei in Taiwan to sign an agreement for the purpose of "promoting educational exchange and cooperation between the two schools."

"This new sister relationship with Tunghai will enhance significantly our continued commitment to academic and cultural diversity," said Lantz. He described the new agreement as an "exciting link to the Far East."

The exchanges were designed to be in the fields of the humanities, science, technology, social sciences, communications and management.

It was the university's second sister relationship with a university in another country. The Intercollege of Cyprus was the other university involved in a similar relationship.

North Hall—there's always something to do.

Beginning with freshman orientation and ending with the North Hall Awards ceremony, residents of North Hall almost never had a moment's rest.

The Halloween Dance was well attended this year with the requirement that all attenders must be in costume. A scavenger hunt was added to the festivities.

Christmas brought about the hall decorating contest, won by the second floor women. In addition, North Hall residents collected canned goods and clothes for needy during the Christmas season.

When students weren't working, studying and going to class, they could be found at events such as the field day games and Brown County Day.

Residents presented awards to each other such as "Biggest Brown-noser," "Friendliest North Hall Resident" and "Most Gullible" at the North Hall awards ceremony.

"Everyone here is really friendly. It's like one big family. There is always something to do," said Daryl Ewick, sophomore.

Cravens Hall—the place to build special friendships.

Residents dressed Cravens up for Homecoming and Halloween.

Traditional hall T-shirts were emblazoned on the front with "NO MAN'S LAND" and decorated depicting Cravens as an island separate from the rest of the university.

The 137 residents honored the senior class residents with a party in the basement.

"We gave each of the seniors a rose, and there was food," said Lisa English, freshman.

Cravens women could be found studying in the lobby and basement, but the favored spot was in the hallways.

"You could always find a bunch of people sitting in their doorways studying with a bunch of friends," said English.

"I think Cravens is great for the first year in college. It gives you a chance to develop friendships that I think you would have a hard time doing in New or Warren," said English.

WARREN

fun & games

Warren Hall—the hall that's always busy. At any hour of the day or night there's something going on. From Fun and Games Week to Christmas gift exchanges, residents enjoyed the college dorm experience to the fullest.

"One day after it rained, the street was flooded and there were about 75 people out in it doing the Hokey Pokey and cheering and playing slip and slide. It was great," said Blake Walker, junior.

Fun and Games Week consisted of pool, ping-pong, euchre and Trivial Pursuit tournaments.

When Warren Hall residents actually got down to studying, most went down to the basement. When studying became too-boring, students hung out in the lobby, playing pool or watching movies.

- Alpha Chi recognizes those students in the top 10 percent of the junior and senior classes for their academic excellence. Membership is by invitation of the faculty through the sponsors, Dr. Herbert Cassel and Dr. James Foust. Alpha Chi activities include forums, cookouts, guest speakers and running a booth at Mardi Gras.
- Alpha Sigma Lambda is a coeducational honor society for undergraduate extended programs students. Members are invited from the top five percent of all baccalaureate students. These students must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.3 with a minimum six credit hours per semester.
- Phi Alpha Epsilon recognizes freshmen who take a minimum 30 credit hours and maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 during their first year at the university.
- Sigma Tau Delta is the English honor society. English majors and minors with a B average who are in the top one-third of their classes are invited to join Sigma Tau Delta.
- The Delta Psi chapter of Delta Mu Delta is for those who excel in the School of Business. Invitations to join are offered only after consideration of a student's grade point average and class standing.
- Eligibility for membership into Alpha Psi Omega involves accumulating points in technical and acting areas of performance to meet national standards. Activities include meetings every two weeks, refreshment sales at plays, an annual retreat and an annual awards banquet—"The Willys."
- Sigma Zeta is the natural sciences and mathematics honor society. Members must carry 3.0 grade point average in their major classes and a 2.8 overall.

SERVICE with a SMILE

U of I offers many opportunities for students — an education, a chance to experience different cultures, exposure to possible employers, a place to work out!

A time comes when students start to return the favor. Many students at U of I joined service organizations in an effort to help members of the Indianapolis community and the university.

• U of I deputation teams performed in area churches to spread their Christian message. Two teams, a drama team called Spare Change and a singing group, Pass It On, performed throughout the year.

• More than 40 students participated in the U of I Ambassador program during the 1990-1991 school year. Ambassadors were responsible for showing high school students the campus and introducing them to professors, counselors, coaches and pizza!

•Members of Circle K performed campus and community service projects as well as fund raising events. Students involved with Circle K were trained in leadership and social skills during their weekly meetings.

• Presidential Assistants worked for President Lantz throughout the year. Assistants were essential in helping with the Governor's Prayer Breakfast, Alumni Weekend and Lugar Day.

• Student volunteers helped various agencies in Indianapolis as part of the Volunteers In Service program initiated by President Lantz.

MOZART to MAGNOLIAS

Whether Shakespeare and Mozart strike your fancy, or Neil Simon and classic rock are more your style, performing arts groups provided entertainment for just about any preference during the 1990-91 school year.

Students and community members alike went through nerve-wracking auditions, then exhausting rehearsals to bring the magic and excitement of music and stage craft to U of I.

• The theater department produced three plays in Ransburg Auditorium this year: Mr. Roberts, Steel Magnolias and The Shadow Box. The dinner theater production was No Sex Please, We're British. The award winning dramas and comedies were directed by Dr. Richard Williams along with student assistants.

• The vocal music department expanded to form a new chamber ensemble, Mon Choeur. All vocal groups including Crimson Express and the Concert Choir performed a wide range of music from the classics to jazz to pop music. Dr. Paul Krasnovsky directed all three groups.

• The Concert Band held its annual Spring Concert in Ransburg Auditorium in April. Directed by Jim White, members of the band performed selections from Bach, Copeland and Padilla. Band members studied various types of music throughout the year.

• The Student/Reflector saw many improvements in the 1990-91 school year including greater issue numbers, nameplate and graphic changes, and more use of photos. Students and faculty adviser Terri Johnson worked long hours to produce no less than an eight-page newspaper every two weeks as well as two registration issues. Editor-in-Chief Susan Haynes assigned stories to cover issues including Operation Desert Storm, the media arts center, student productions, sports and various features. Jackie Johnson was honored by the Society of Professional Journalists for her story on crime on college campuses.

• The Oracle yearbook staff worked throughout the year collecting stories and pictures to capture the essence of the 1990-1991 school year. In May, staff members attended the Indiana Collegiate Press Association's annual convention, walking away with numerous awards for the 1989-1990 Oracle. Awards included best sports coverage, best sports photography, best endsheets, best organization of content, best coverage of clubs and organizations, best album section and best closing section.

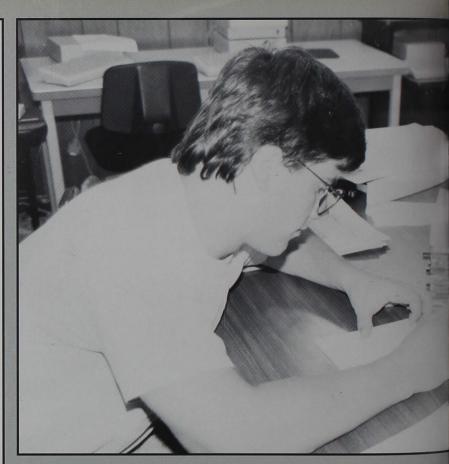

1989-1990 Co-Editors Susan Haynes and Andria Liverett also accepted the Division II Yearbook of the Year award for the book.

A mixture of victory and defeat during the 1990-1991 school year characterized Greyhound sports. The men's tennis team ended its regular season with a 9-6 record, while the football team failed to win a home game.

The women's swim team earned the title of Indiana Little State champions.

No matter what the sport, U of I athletes spent many hours in hard practice, fueled by determination and an intense desire to win.

Greyhounds struggle at home

The first season in the Midwest Intercollegiate Football Conference (MIFC) was a disappointing one for the 1990 U of I football team. The Greyhounds finished with a 3-6-1 mark for the year, the school's worst since 1970. It was also the first time in Head Coach Bill Bless' 19-year tenure that the 'Hounds finished the season winless at home.

However, seniors walked away with new school records. Quarterback Jeff Mitchell finished as the school's all-time leader in total offense with 5,626 yards. Dan Beauchot set a school record with 2,169 yards punting during the season. Free safety and co-captain Kenny Helmuth finished second on the career interception list with 17.

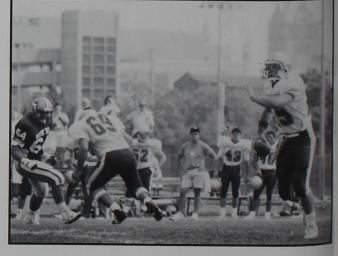

The 'Hounds saw a couple of single game records fall during the season. In the opening game of the year, sophomore wide out Jim Detherage totalled 216 yards receiving. Mitchell threw for 431 yards in the same contest, putting him in the record book.

Two players earned first team All-Conference honors for U of I. Junior nosetackle Greg Matheis, who led the 'Hounds in tackles, tackles for loss and sacks this season, was one selection with Helmuth being the other.

The Greyhounds also performed well off the field. Senior offensive tackle David Hoffman, junior wide receiver Troy Smith and Mitchell all were named to the MIFC All-Academic first team.

At the fall sports banquet, junior tight end David Smith was honored as the most valuable offensive player while Matheis was named the most valuable defensive player. Joe Morris was selected as the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award winner.

Jeff Mitchell, senior quarterback, rolls out to throw as Skip Eaton, senior guard, protects his back. Mitchell was the all-time total offense leader in U of I history.

Kevin Hergott, junior half back, skirts the Hillsdale defense. Hergott was the team's leading rusher.

Defensive Coordinator Dave Lewis reviews defense strategy. Defensive players spent extra hours during the week working on game strategies.

The 1990 soccer squad enjoyed its first winning season since 1981. The season included a third place finish in the GLVC conference—the best in school history.

The Greyhounds finished 7-6-2 in overall competition, while posting a 3-3-1 slate in the GLVC.

Coach Mike Moore said farewell to his two senior captains, Chris Lagoni and Eric Hunsaker, who provided both good play and strong leadership. Moore welcomes back 18 players for the 1991 season.

Moore praised the defense, but said, "we had problems getting the ball in the net."

He was also pleased with the play from his two goalies, sophomore Scott Hubbard and freshman Aaron Rinehart, who were both atop the conference throughout the season in goals against average.

Joseph Joseph led the Greyhounds in points and was named to the All-GLVC soccer team.

Sophomore Andy Smart was awarded MVP, while Hunsaker was honored with the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award.

The men's cross country team showed the depth of its stamina this year.

"The 'Hounds overcame a lot of adversities," said coach Tom Hathaway.

Many changes faced the U of I team throughout the year. Two team veterans graduated. Several team members were injured or ill. Tom Hathaway replaced Jerry England.

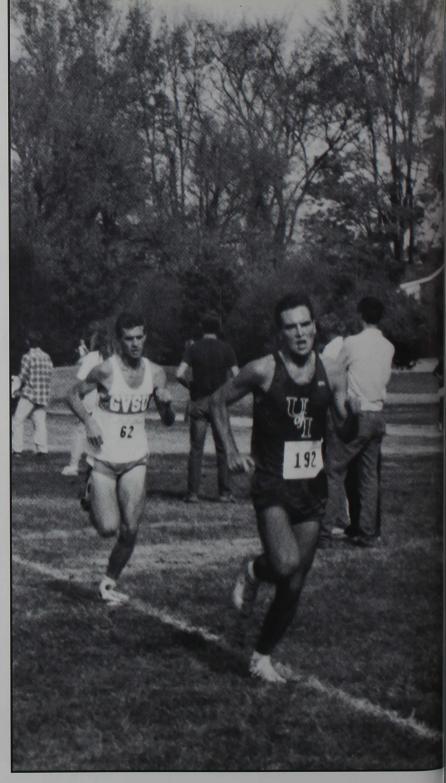

Despite the odds, the team managed to finish the season victoriously, improving its record from 32-27 to 49-18.

Several team members gave extraordinary performances. At the Indiana Intercollegiate at Indiana State, Mike Oppy made all Little State by finishing seventh overall. Chris Johnson qualified for All-Conference by placing seventh at the GLVC meet at Ashland.

Coach Hathaway opted not to take a full team to the NCAA Division II Regionals at Southeastern Missouri State on Nov. 3. Hathaway cited that both the rough season that the team had faced and the economic aspect of taking a full team prevented him from taking more runners.

Johnson and Ron Byers represented the 'Hounds at the regionals. Johnson finished 22nd overall making him a member of the All-Regional team.

U of I's women's cross country team set some goals for itself going into the 1990 season. The harriers wanted to win the Little State Championship and they wanted to place higher than third in the GLVC meet.

The ladies accomplished both tasks. On Oct. 12 the team dominated the Little State meet. Six Greyhounds finished in the top 10 enabling U of I to coast to an easy victory.

On Oct. 20 the 'Hounds finished in second place at the conference meet. Seniors Shari Edwards and Jenny Field along with freshman Missy Mahnesmith received All-GLVC honors.

The team finished the season with a record of 56-3. Head Coach Tom Hathaway credits a balanced running attack and a good attitude as the keys to U of I's success.

"They've worked well together," said Hathaway.

The team competed at the NCAA division II regionals at Southeastern Missouri State Nov. 3. Edwards, Field, Mahnesmith, Michelle Faulkner and Jenny Klehm broke twenty minutes. Edwards was named to the all-regional team.

"This is the highest we've ever had a girls' team place," said Hathaway.

The 1990 women's volleyball season began and ended with disappointment.

Before the season began the team was dealt a stifling blow. A few key players did not return this season. This left the team, not only short of a few players, but lacking in needed height as well.

The team's problems grew even bigger as its line-up became even shorter. Early in the season 6"0' Carmen Griffith missed nearly a month of due to a shoulder injury. Griffith's absence was not only a loss in height which the team could not afford, but it was also the loss of its top hitter.

"I purposefully made the season tough," said Coach Suzanne Willey. "I knew that the competition would be strong, but I was looking at a team that I thought would have greater size."

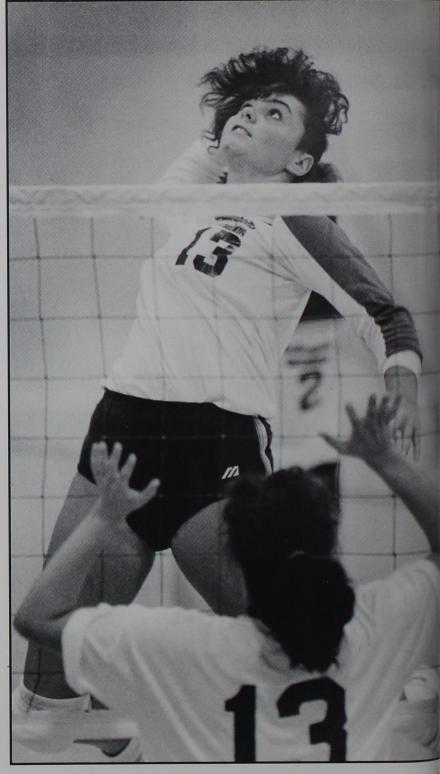

The team finished the season as it started it, with disappointment. The season ended with several losses and a total record of 4-23.

The season was not without highlights. Paige Balka was named to the All-Tournament team at the Cedarville tournament, and Leanne Webb made the All-Tournament team at the St. Louis tournament.

Willey was pleased with the accomplishments of these All-Tournament players, and with the way the rest of players responded to playing in new situations.

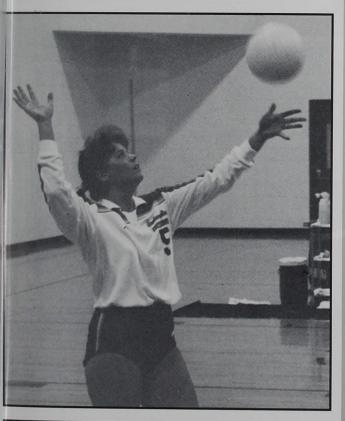

"We had injuries that made our size even more evident with Carmen Griffith out. We had some people come out and do a great job in positions they weren't normally set to play. I think it says something about the team," said Willey.

The Greyhounds men's golf team had yet another successful campaign last season.

The linksters were 146-36 over the year. The team's 146 wins is a new school record.

U of I travelled to Jupiter, Fla., at the end of the season to compete in its third consecutive national tournament. The 'Hounds placed 16th in the tournament.

Kyle Brunnemer finished 12th individually at nationals. He was selected as an honorable mention All-American.

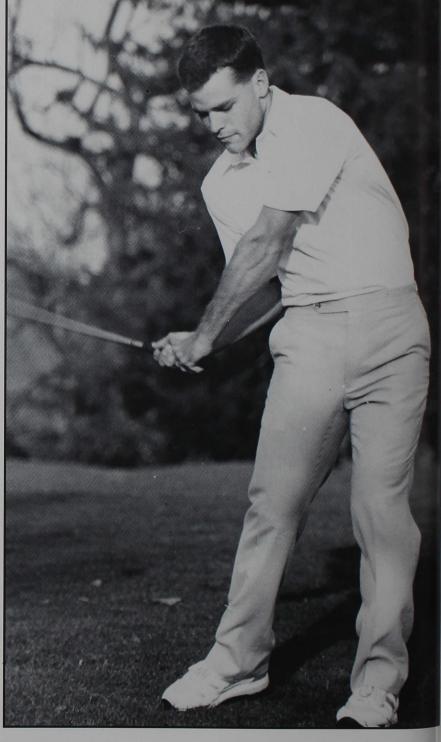

The team won its fourth straight GLVC championship. Head Coach Ken Partridge was named the GLVC's Coach of the Year for the fourth time as well.

U of I had a nucleus of five players that played consistent golf all year. Brunnemer and teammates Todd Clark, Mike Mozingo, Jerry Williams and Scott Richardson paced the Greyhounds. Dion Norris and Sam Thompson both played solid games during the year for U of I.

The team ended the year ranked 14th in NCAA Division II. However, it was ranked as high as ninth at one point in the year.

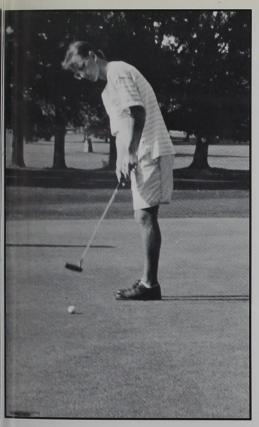

Brunnemer received both the MVP and the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award. He was also named team captain.

The women's golf team suffered through a frustrating season as the lady linksters finished with a 6-20 record. The record was not indicative of the squad's talent considering the ladies competed against Division I competition throughout the season.

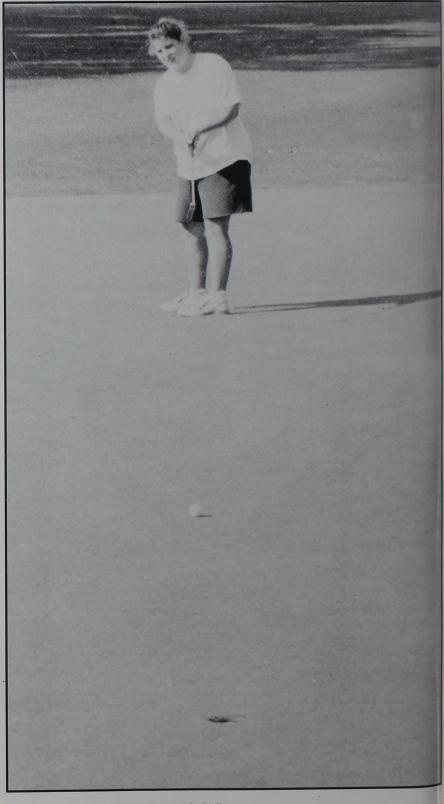

The squad was led by seniors Laura Miller and Kelli Tungate. Both ladies were four year letter winners.

Tungate, from Clarksville, Ind., competed at the National Golf Coaches Association Nationals finishing 18th. This was the third straight year Kelli competed in the tournament. She averaged 85 strokes per round during the fall season and led in both spring invitationals.

'Hounds fight tough competition

U of I's men's basketball team under the direction of Head Coach Bill Green blasted off with the force of a rocket at the beginning of the 1990-91 season. The Greyhound cagers got off to their best start in 27 years by winning nine of their first 11 games.

Competition in the GLVC proved to be a bit tougher though. U of I was 5-13 in conference play, which tied them for eighth place.

"The team was competitive in every game even though four teams in our conference were ranked among the top fifteen in NCAA II," said Green.

The 'Hounds finished up the season with a 12-16 mark.

Ron Rutland and Kyle Persinger provided the offensive spark for U of I. Rutland led the GLVC in scoring and was 10th nationally in Division II with 24.9 points a game. Rutland is U of I's seventh all-time leading scorer with 1,734 points.

Rutland also became the school's all-time assists leader with 546. He represented U of I on the All-GLVC team.

Persinger added 19.0 points a game and was named USA Today's NCAA II Player of the Week to end his career. Persinger is U of I's 11th all-time leading scorer with 1,424 points. He also set a school record for three pointers made in a game when he connected on 10 against Ashland.

Rutland was the team's MVP while Persinger received the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award. The tandem were also co-captains for the 'Hounds.

U of I's women's basketball team won its final three contests of the '90-'91 season to finish with a 15-13 record. Head Coach Chuck Mallender was pleased with the team's strong finish, which evened the Lady Greyhounds' record to 9-9 in GLVC play.

Senior captain Cindy Simko had an outstanding final campaign, breaking four career records. The most valuable player finished as the school's all-time leader in assists (589), steals (291), games started (109) and minutes played (3,795). Simko, an honorable mention All-GLVC pick, was seventh on the career scoring list with 1,077 points.

Sophomore center Courtney Sands, the only Lady Greyhound to be named GLVC player of the week, finished with season records for blocked shots (62), free throws (131), and free throw attempts (198).

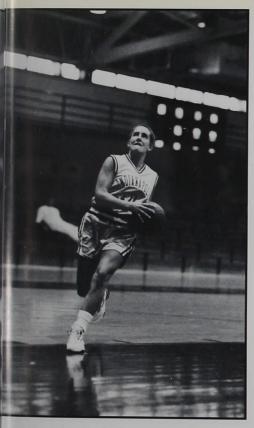

Senior guard Mary Maravilla capped off her last season by being selected to the All-GLVC second team. The 5'8" sharpshooter became the fourth player in Lady Greyhound history to score 400 points or more in a season. Maravilla finished her career fourth on the U of I all-time scoring list with 1,131 points.

Other key contributors for the Lady Greyhounds were sophomore forward Lori Morgan, Kelli Tungate and Leah Ann Adams. Morgan averaged 11.8 points and 7.6 boards per contest while finishing ninth in conference rebounding. Senior center Tungate added 184 points during the season pushing her to 10th place on the school's all-time scoring list. Deimling won Most Valuable Swimmer as the number one sprinter and set three team records. He finished his career with two individual and four relay team records.

Coldren was "the most valuable diver," said Coach Baugh and missed the school record for diving by two points.

Standout sophomore Brent Sneed was named the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award winner and Outstanding Male Swimmer at the Mideast Classic Championship.

The women's team had a good record of 34-11. The ladies also finished as academic All-Americans for the second straight year. Four-year letter winners Emma Haglund, Rhonda Rose and Kelly Tackitt led the squad throughout the season.

Tackitt recorded her best career times in the  $500\,\mathrm{m}$  freestyle and the  $200\,\mathrm{m}$  backstroke.

Freshman sensation Kristi Hamilton was named Most Valuable Swimmer after breaking four school records and earning the Outstanding Female Swimmer award at the Mideast Classic Championship.

Grapplers sweep Little State

Head Coach Terry Wetherald's grapplers posted an outstanding 11-3 dual meet record for the 1990-1991 season. Junior Greg Matheis' impressive performance was one reason for the team's success.

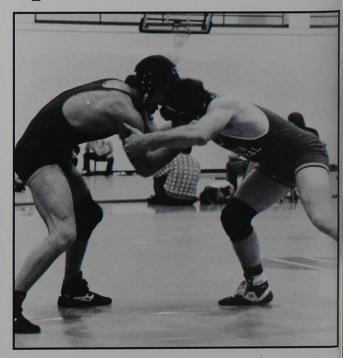

The Greyhound heavyweight made his third consecutive trip to the NCAA Division II Nationals after earning All-American honors during the 1989-1990 campaign. Matheis wrestled his way to a 39-5 record on the season and fifth place at nationals. The two-time All-American and team MVP broke the school record for most career victories in the process. With one year of eligibility remaining, Matheis' career record stands at an impressive 109-22.

The seniors on the squad also had outstanding performances. Cocaptain Gerrid Tishner (126 lbs.), one of four Little State champions, completed the season 31-7 while finishing his career with 88 victories. Chris Pugliese (177 lbs.), the other Greyhound co-captain, finished 32-8 to complete his career at U of I with 97 wins. Jim Tonte (158 lbs.) was this year's recipient of the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award. The senior Little State champion won 29 matches while only losing eight on the season.

Freshman Sam Ruff (134 lbs.) captured a Little State championship and qualified for nationals as an alternate. Sophomore Rich Kelly (142 lbs.) was the other Little State champion for the Greyhounds.

Wetherald was pleased with the team's accomplishments and the great individual efforts. The grapplers hope to improve on the impressive 11-3 record for next season.

Basemen post strong season

The Greyhound baseball team posted a mark of 21-23 for the 1991 season.

The basemen were 10-8 in the GLVC which tied them for fourth place.

"Overall it was a disappointing season, our hitting stalled late and we finished knowing we could have done better," said Coach Mark Peterson.

Despite the team's record, several members played strong throughout the season.

Tim Bragg did some fine work during the season, both behind the plate and with his bat. Bragg led the team in several offensive categories including batting with an average of .391, home runs with five and RBI's with 39.

Dave Wilkerson also made his final season a memorable one. Wilkerson rewrote the record books with 87 steals, 163 hits, 127 runs and 483 at bats, all school records.

Both Bragg and Wilkerson were named to the All-Conference team. Wilkerson was named to the All-RWegional team as well.

Brent Osswald and Jim Bair both had records of 4-2 to lead the team in the pitching department. Osswald also hurled a no-hitter against Saginaw Valley.

Dan Beauchot had the lowest ERA of all Greyhound pitchers with a 1.47. Todd Iwema topped the staff in strikeouts with 41.

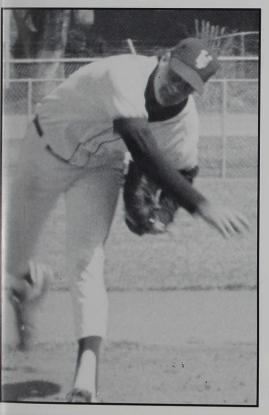

Scott Gilliam led the Hounds in hits with 48 and doubles with eight. Tim Lawmaster ripped four triples to lead the team in that department.

"We got good performances from our young players."

Kathy Redmond (at net) and Amy Potts made a strong doubles team for the 'Hounds. Redmond and Potts captured the GVLC championsip.

Team continues winning tradition

The women's tennis team completed the 1990 season with a record mark of 12-2 and captured the GLVC conference championship for the second time in three years.

The team was led by senior Cyndi Heaton. Heaton posted a 15-2 record at the number three singles spot and teamed with sophomore Traci Griffith to record a 14-2 record at number two doubles. Heaton also captured the GLVC championship for number three singles as well as for number two doubles with Griffith.

Griffith also played the number five and four singles spots where she comprised an overall record of 15-2 (11-1 at number four singles and 4-1 at number five) and placed second at conference at the number four singles position.

Junior Amy Potts completed the season 12-4 at number one singles and 14-2 and the GLVC championship at number one doubles with freshman Kathy Redmond.

"Amy has changed to a serve and volleyer which leads to a higher percentage of mistakes," said coach Dawn Patel.

The freshman class was represented well by Kathy Redmond and Lisa Precourt. Redmond posted a 15-2 mark at number two singles, a school record at that position, won the GLVC at number two singles, and teamed with Potts to capture the title at number one doubles. Precourt played three positions in singles and at number three doubles for conference. Precourt ended the season 14-3, a school record at number five singles, 1-1 in doubles, and runner-up at conference.

Sophomore Stacey Hissong captured second at conference and posted an overall record of 14-3 at number six singles.

DONT HHE NET

The U of I men's tennis team had a recordbreaking year in 1991. On its way to winning a second conference championship in three years, the team set the mark for victories in one season at nine.

The team, led by coach Joe Gentry, began preparing for the season early. In March, the team travelled to Florida and played approximately 23 hours of tennis per person in one week. The abundance of playing time before the season let the team brush up on its fundamentals.

The team also trained off the court. Paul Buck, graduate assistant, led the team through pre-season training consisting of running and weight training. Gentry and Buck agreed that the team was probably in the best shape any U of I men's tennis team had ever been.

Hard work and high expectations were the team's secrets of success.

"They knew we expected a lot, but they kept working hard," said Gentry.

"Hard work has allowed us to do our fundamentals better. When we are in shape we don't get tired as quickly and we can play fundamentally."

The team's preparations paid off when it won the GLVC tournament.

The conference recognized the efforts and skills of four of the players that led it to the championship. Perry Mann, Ismail Iyisoy, Mark Curts, and Phil Knust were named All-GLVC players.

The team's success did not end on the tennis court. Iyisoy, Curts, John Venter, and Mark Hamm were named All-GLVC for their academic accomplishments. Along with the championship, and the newly broken victory record, Gentry called the naming of the four students to the All-GLVC academic team one of the team's greatest accomplishments.

—Doug McCullough

Marc Hamm, sophomore number four player, practices in the fall for the spring season. Early conditioning played a large part in the team's success.

Senior captain Mark Curts concentrates on a shot. Curts received the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award.

John Venter, sophomore, concentrates on the ball during a practice session. Venter had the highest G. P. A. of any male athlete.

U of I's women's track team, under the direction of Head Coach Dawn Patel, was a force to be reckoned with during the 1991 season.

The team finished the year with a record of 19-1 in dual meets. The key to the Lady Hounds success was its depth.

Two distance runners stood out for U of I. Shari Edwards holds the school record in the 10,000 meter run. Edwards also was a provisional qualifier for the NCAA II meet. She was the recipient of the Walter Brenneman Sportsmanship Award which represents team captain honors. Edwards also received the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award.

Michelle Faulkner also had a sensational sophomore season. Faulkner set a new school record in the 800 meter run in a time of 2:12. Faulkner was named as the team's MVP.

Distance runner Jenny Field was also honored for her achievements as a student-athlete. She received the Parker P. Jordan Scholar-Athlete Award for the second straight year. Field had a 3.93 GPA.

Paige Balka and Linda Skaggs also were spearheads for the Lady Greyhounds. Balka turned in several top performances in the sprints while Skaggs did the same in the shot put and discus.

The teams biggest victory of the season came when it won the Little State championship. The Lady 'Hounds also won the U of I Invitational.

-Blake Walker

Senior Sharri Edwards grunts out the last lap of her event. Edwards received the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award, as well as the Walter Brenneman Sportmanship Award.

Senior Jenny Field keeps a steady pace before she makes her move. Field was honored with the Parker P. Jordan Award for her outstanding acheivements in the classroom.

Finishing strong, Michelle Faulkner takes first in the 800m. Faulkner holds the school record in this event (2:12).

Tracksters score perfect record

Coach Jerry England's Men's track team finished the season undefeated with a 34-0 record, an outstanding season for the Greyhound tracksters.

The team was led by seniors Jim Self, team captain Brian Bohrer and Eric Hunsaker, all four year letter winners. Senior Kirk Berridge earned his third letter and fellow senior Ron Byers earned his second.

Junior thrower Brian Burkhart was named the team's most valuable player by being named MVP of field events at the Little State and Wabash Relays. Burkhart also went to NCAA II nationals for the second straight year by setting a school record in the hammer throw with a 187'7" throw. Twin brother Brett Burkhart was a provisional qualifier to the nationals with a mark of 161'0" in the discus.

Junior sprinter Sam Kozyra went to NCAA nationals for the second straight year finishing ninth in the 200m. Kozyra set a school record in the 200m during the year and tied the school record in the 100m.

Sophomore Bill Uecker was the Kelso Reid Mental Attitude Award winner for 1991.

Elisa Bowen and other cheerleaders drum up spirit from the crowd at the homecoming football game against Hillsdale.

Young squads show versatility

Both the U of I Cheerleaders and Crimson Steppers had exciting firsts during the 1990-1991 school year.

Crimson Steppers used builds for the first time, under the direction of Terra Kovener, while the cheerleaders used the U of I Greyhound mascot in builds and began a series of time-out dances at home basketball games.

The cheerleading squad consisted of seven girls, two juniors, one sophomore and four freshman.

"This year's squad had more high school experience, which really helped a lot," said Elisa Bowen, junior cheerleader and radio/television major.

"It brought a lot of new talent and originality into our routines,"

Members of Crimson Steppers provided half-time entertainment at football and basketball games, including a "fifties" routine complete with vintage convertible.

Crimson Steppers also got new uniforms for the 1990-1991 athletic season.

"It was hard to keep the fans motivated most of the time, but we had fun trying," said Bowen.

Years of hard academic work were symbolized April 27 as hundreds of U of I students went through commencement ceremonies in Nicoson Hall. The university's 86th commencement marked an end to academic endeavors for many students but a stepping stone for some planning graduate studies.

Internationally recognized journalist Georgia Anne Geyer addressed graduates with inspirational insight about many of the national political leaders she has interviewed, including Fidel Castro, Saddam Hussein, Muammar Khadafy, and Presidents Bush, Reagan and Ford. Geyer also received the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Also honored at commencement were Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra director Raymond Leppard, Reverend Thomas C. Rough of the High Street United Methodist Church of Muncie and Dr. Ann Sablan, district superintendent of the New Castle district of the South Indiana Conference, United Methodist Church.

Presidential assistants line up graduating seniors for the procession into Nicoson Hall.

COMMENCE

Ryan Fites and Thomas Finney dress for commencement. Majors and degrees may be determined by the cut and colors of academic regalia worn during the graduation ceremony.

BUSY!

Well, here it is. After many BUSY hours in front of a Mac and in the darkroom, an entire academic year in 128 pages.

Now that we have come to the end of our very BUSY book, there are several people I would like to thank personally.

Sincere appreciation goes to all the students, faculty and staff of U of I for all of the pictures, information and statistics filling up volume 72, the Let's Get BUSY edition of The Oracle.

Special thanks goes to Joe Gentry in Sports Information, Coach Bill Bright, Michelle Faulkner, Coach Seemann Baugh and Coach Chuck Mallender for sports pictures and photo identifications.

I would also like to give my personal thanks to Terri Johnson, our adviser, Angel Sherry, Cricket Steele and especially Trina Brown, Larry Wiley and Susan Haynes, who spent so much time during the summer getting the book done. My thanks to Dale, too, for being patient and supportive.

Good Luck to next year's co-editors, Kenny Marshall and Cricket Steele!

-Andria Liverett

Colophon

The 1991 Oracle yearbook of the University of Indianapolis was printed by the Printing and Publishing Division of Jostens in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The local representative was Richard S. Maurer.

The cover is a two-color lithographed and laminated Editionline Litho wrapped on 120 point Davey Red Label spoon-woven cover board. The endsheets are printed in black on white Transicolor stock. Design assistance for the cover, endsheets and opening section was provided by Jostens Creative Resources Designer John Doubler.

The Oracle staff submitted the opening section in camera ready form along with copy disks. The remainder of the book was produced with the Jostens Yeartech program. Typefaces used interchangeably are Optima and Palatino for headlines and body copy. All captions are Palatino. All sports statistics are agate type.

Mrs. Terri Johnson was yearbook adviser, and Andria Liverett was the editor in chief. Susan Haynes was the assistant editor, and section editors included Angel Sherry, opening; Cricket Steele, organizations; Larry Wiley, sports and Susan Haynes, album. The Oracle is a member of the Indiana Collegiate Press Association.
